The Danger of Food Adulteration.
The time has come when every housekeeper who regards the health of her family must know where she stands on the question of food adulteration. Scientific knowledge and unscrupulous greed have joined hands to pollute human food for the sake of money making. To understand the situation, its extent and its dangers, is the right and the duty of every intelligent housekeeper. To this end, an analytical chemist, who is well known as an investigator of adulterated foods and a lecturer to American housewives, Dr. J. C. Olen, has granted an interview to a representative of The New Idea Woman's Magazine, which appears in the August issue. He explains the existing conditions, indicates their peril and gives some valuable information on the detection of impurities in food.

Notice.

To whoever it may concern:

Take notice that on the first day of the September term, 1907, of the Circuit Court of Clarke County, the same being the fourth Monday, I will present to said court my petition as guardian of my two children, namely, Nannie E. Poston and Mary A. Poston, aged respectively eight and six years, being the only issue of my deceased husband, John J. Poston, and ask an order in said proceeding on said petition authorizing me as guardian to receive all moneys or personal property belonging to my said wards in the State of Virginia, and particularly to receive the share coming to my said children from the proceeds of the sale of said tract of land in Clarke County, Virginia, made by a Special Commissioner in the case of Foster vs. Bell and others, the said share being one-sixth part of the proceeds of said sale and to remove the same from the State of Virginia to the State of Maryland, where I and the said children reside.

All persons who may be affected by such removal are notified to appear on said day to protect their interests.

FRANCIS K. POSTON.

Speakers for State Farmers' Institute.

Excellent progress has been made in arranging the program for the next meeting of the State Farmers' Institute, and while it is not complete in all its details many persons will be interested to learn the names of a number of the speakers who have agreed to be present and deliver addresses.

The Hon. W. M. Hays, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture will give two addresses, one on the "Future of the American Farmer," and the other on "The Value of Technical Education for the Farmer." Prof. Hays is too well known to need an introduction to the farmers of Virginia.

Dr. A. G. Melvin, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington, D. C., will discuss the "Eradication of Ticks in Virginia," which means so much to a part of the State.

Prof. A. G. Shamel, of the Bureau of Plant Industry, will discuss the "Improvement of Tobacco and other Farm Crops." Prof. Shamel is a specialist in this line of work, and is in a position to give much valuable information to our tobacco growers, and they will no doubt be delighted at having an opportunity to hear from one who is an authority on this important subject.

Prof. Rommel of the United States Department of Agriculture will give a talk on the American Carriage Horse and what the Government is doing to stimulate an interest in the breeding and development of horses of this class.

Dr. S. A. Robinson of Covington, Va., will read a paper on the "Food Value of Milk," and Dr. Chas. A. Cannaday of Roanoke, Va., will read a paper on the "City Milk Supply." These papers will both be handled by experts in their line, and the dairy business is growing so rapidly in the States that their remarks will certainly be listened to with much interest and benefit.

Dr. Paul Barringer, the President elect of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute will also be present and discuss the subject of "An Open Field for Industry." Undoubtedly all of the members will be glad to have an opportunity of meeting the new President of the V. P. I.

"Road Building" will be considered in detail by Capt. P. St. J. Wilson, State highway Commissioner. This is a subject of vast economic importance and the part the State is playing in improving our highways through the use of convicts will undoubtedly provide one of the most interesting features of the meeting.

These are but a few of the more important subjects. In addition it is proper to state that a summary of the results of feeding over 400 head of beef cattle, and 160 or more head of hogs and a large number of calves will be presented. There will also be a report on the result of the work of the Department of Field Experiments at Blacksburg.

It is needless to say that there is a treat in store for all who attend the 4th Annual Meeting of the Virginia State Farmers' Institute.

ANDREW M. SOULE,
Secretary.
